22 June 2017

The New Zealand Geographic Board Ngā Pou Taunaha o Aotearoa is seeking public views on a proposal to change ‘Omiha’ to ‘Rocky Bay’, for a small populated locality overlooking Kuakarau Bay and Omiha Bay, on Waiheke Island.

“The proposal was submitted by a resident from this community,” says Board Secretary, Wendy Shaw.

“It has now been taken to the next stage, which is public consultation. We’d like to encourage people to give us their views.”

“After consultation closes the Board will reconsider all submissions at its next meeting in October to make a decision.”
