Cities & Philanthropy
STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP

The power of making space in cities to enable philanthropy to provide for community.

Community means:
* A place where everyone can contribute and participate in their own special or unique way in a safe inclusive environment they feel they belong to.

– Places for Good

Item 5.1
What I hope you will take away from this:

- Council and city are not the only entities with the sole responsibility or motivation to develop our communities for good. But if we only rely on commercial funding to fill this gap the risk is that we inadvertently turn these places into unwelcome spaces.
- We need to ask ourselves, what can the city provide? How much more do we need? And where are there opportunities to let philanthropy fill those gaps?
- If we don’t make space and invite this to happen we will miss the opportunity.
- Like these examples I have shown you, we need projects in our city to sow the seed and make way for philanthropy to grow and flourish in our community.
