TERMS OF REFERENCE
(Excerpt – full terms of reference available as a separate document)

The terms of reference set out the purpose, role and protocols of the Panel. Panel members abide by the Code of Conduct for members of Auckland Council advisory panels.

Purpose
As one of council’s engagement mechanisms with diverse communities, the demographic advisory panels provide advice to the governing body and council staff within the remit of the Auckland Plan on the following areas:

- Auckland Council’s regional policies, plans and strategies
- Regional and strategic matters including those that Council-Controlled Organisations deal with any matter of particular interest or concern to diverse communities.

Outcomes
The panel’s advice will contribute to improving the outcomes of diverse communities and social cohesion as set out in the Auckland Plan. The panel will advise through their agreed strategic agenda and detailed work programme.

Strategic agenda and work programme
The panel must develop a work programme and set a strategic agenda for the term. The agendas should be focused and integrated across the panels for collaborative input into shared agendas, particularly on the Auckland Plan, the Long-term Plan and annual plans. The panel should advise on council’s organisational strategies relevant to diverse communities.

The governing body and council staff should work with the panel for the development of their strategic agendas and work programme. An appropriate committee will approve the panel’s work programme and any subsequent major changes to it.

Submissions
The panel must not make formal submissions to Auckland Council on council strategies, policies and plans, for example, the annual plan.

In its advisory role to the council, the panel may have input to submissions made by the council to external organisations but do not make independent submissions, except as agreed with the council.

This does not prevent individual members being party to submissions outside their role as panel members.

Review
The form and functioning of the panels may be reviewed prior to or after, the end of the panel's term in September 2019.

Discussion questions

A. Drury-Opāheke
1. What do you like about the plans for Drury-Opāheke?
2. What makes a successful centre?
3. Is there anything you think should be changed?
4. Do these plans make you want to live in Drury-Opāheke in the future? Why or why not?

B. Pukekohe-Paerata
1. What do you like about the plans for Pukekohe-Paerata?
2. Is there anything you think should be changed?
3. Do these plans make you want to live in Pukekohe-Paerata in the future? Why or why not?

Background
The Auckland Plan 2050 sets the direction for how Auckland will grow and develop over the next 30 years.

At the time of the 2014 census, Auckland’s population was 1,493,200 people. By 2043 the population is projected to grow to between 2,047,800 (low) and 2,606,800 (high) people. Auckland’s challenge is how to accommodate this growth by providing for housing, jobs, open space and infrastructure, while sharing prosperity among all Aucklanders, and reducing environmental damage.

Development of land zoned Future Urban under the Auckland Unitary Plan is part of the solution to the growth challenge. Development in greenfield areas around Auckland is sequenced and timed for when these areas will be ‘live zoned’ and the necessary bulk infrastructure is in place. Auckland Council’s Future Urban Land Supply Strategy 2017 details this approach.

Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata are two of the first Future Urban zoned areas sequenced for development. We anticipate that the population of Drury-Opāheke could grow to about 65,000 as the area urbanises over the next 30 years, creating a need for around 23,000 new houses and 11,000 new jobs. The population of Pukekohe-Paerata is also expected to grow to around 65,000. The proposed zonings will add capacity for around 12,000 new dwellings in the Future Urban zoned areas surrounding Pukekohe-Paerata.

We are working on draft structure plans for these areas and are seeking public feedback on draft land use plans for each area.

Structure plans:
- identify opportunities and constraints relating to the land including: infrastructure provision, heritage, natural values and natural hazards
- investigate and address the potential effects of urbanisation in the structure plan areas
• identify suitable urban land uses
• do not rezone land but they will guide future plan change processes to rezone future urban zoned land into urban zones.
• A copy of a draft land use plan consultation document with a feedback form is attached for each of Opāheke-Drury and Pukekohe-Paerata as well as a set of Frequently Asked Questions.
• Transport networks will be needed to support future growth long term in these areas. A “Supporting Growth” transport consultation is also currently occurring for Auckland’s south with the aim of confirming the future transport network over the next five years. “Supporting Growth is a project involving Auckland Transport, the New Zealand Transport Authority and private consultants.

Consideration
One of the challenges when planning for greenfield areas, is to predict who will want to live in the two areas in 30 years and what the development in the areas will be like.

Youth Advisory Panel members can help with this project by thinking about, and giving feedback about, what they think these places should be like in 30 years.

Issues to consider include transport options, density of development, employment, sustainability and affordability.

Feedback from the group will be sought at this meeting.

Public engagement about the draft land use plans and the “Supporting Growth” transport options close on 10 October 2018. We will consider the feedback we receive and continue working towards draft structure plans for Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata. It is anticipated that these will be ready in early 2019, and that we will then seek further feedback about them.

Once the structure plans are finalised, they will become the basis for Auckland Council to make zoning and rule changes to the Unitary Plan to enable the development of these areas.

Pukekohe-Paerata Draft Land Use Plan 2018

What’s already happened?
In September and October 2017 Council asked for your feedback about the opportunities, issues or challenges we should consider when developing a structure plan for Pukekohe-Paerata. We also asked what you thought about a map showing some proposed mapped land uses.

You told us these matters were important:
• Transport, traffic, road and public transport
• Infrastructure timing and staging
• Road – Production, rail, Character and function of Pukekohe, railway sensitivity, interface
• Resilient zoning, location, and staging
• Business land demand
• Ecology
• Open space provision
• Social Infrastructure

Following your feedback we have done more work. This includes updating flood information, working with mana whenua, considering business land location and identifying potential neighbourhood and suburban park locations. We are also working with the Supporting Growth Alliance on transport options for Paerata Pukekohe.

You can read a copy of the 2017 consultation material including background reports and a feedback summary here: aucklandcouncil.govt.nz/haveyoursay

What’s happening next?
We will consider your feedback and continue working towards a draft structure plan for Pukekohe-Paerata. It is anticipated that this will be ready in 2019.

Once the draft plan is finalised, it will become the basis for Auckland Council initiated plan changes. If you would like to give us some feedback or be on our mailing list, please fill in your details on a feedback form.

Southern Structure Plans - Pukekohe-Paerata and Drury-Oparaheke
Drury-Opāheke Draft Land Use Plan

We’d like your feedback on the proposed draft for future land use for Drury-Opāheke. Here is a summary and feedback form.

Introduction
The Auckland Plan 2050 is our long-term spatial plan to ensure Auckland grows in a way that will meet the opportunities and challenges of the future. This includes future urban zoned areas. Drury-Opāheke is one of these areas.

What is happening?
Auckland Council is preparing a structure plan to guide the future urban development of Drury. Structure planning informs future plan changes to provide zoning for housing, centres, industry and open space in the area. A draft plan has been prepared, taking into consideration public feedback received last year.

What is proposed for Drury-Opāheke?
The vision for Drury-Opāheke is to be a sustainable, liveable, compact and accessible place. Drury-Opāheke will feature successful town and local centres, with residential options close to a variety of employment opportunities, while the area’s cultural and heritage values are respected. Drury-Opāheke will be connected to the wider Auckland region through improved transport networks.

The plan responds to this vision, showing indicative land uses for Drury-Opāheke. The area could provide for about 23,000 houses, and a population of about 65,000 over 30 years.

Environment and heritage
The plan shows the main known environmental features and hazards. This helps to determine the location of land uses.

Drury-Opāheke has an extensive stream and floodplain network that connects headwaters to the Te-Manuka-o-Hoturoa (Manukau Harbour). It is an important natural feature of Drury-Opāheke and is of particular importance to mana whenua.

Floodplains are a significant natural hazard and we should not locate flood sensitive urban land uses within them. In particular, urban land uses are unlikely to be suitable for much of the large 260ha Otuwairoa (Slippery Creek) floodplain. The council is undertaking research on future management of this floodplain.

The values of riparian margins can be protected by either esplanade reserves or by other methods as indicated in the image below.

Heritage and cultural sites will be protected through the Auckland Unitary Plan.

Centres
New centres will be important to the future society and economy of Drury-Opāheke. They will be the commercial, cultural and social focal points for the area. The draft plan shows potential town and local centres for Drury-Opāheke. Neighbourhood centres (local shops) will also be needed but are not shown at this scale. Centres are shown located close to road and potential future rapid public transport networks.

The image below shows an artist’s impression of a potential town centre located near a railway station.
It features: civic parks, shops, offices and apartments; all clustered near the railway station linked to a rapid bus network. Terraced houses and single houses are shown with increasing distance from the centre of the town. The design of actual towns may differ from this indicative concept. Achieving vibrant walkable centres is important. Your feedback will help refine the location, scale and form of centres.

Employment
In 2017 you told us that employment was important. The Drury-Opāheke structure plan area will need to provide for a diversity of business and employment opportunities. Business and jobs will be located in centres, other business areas, and also in residential areas. At least 34 ha of centre land and 140 ha of industrial land will be needed. Overall, at least 11,000 jobs could be provided for.

Transport
You have also told us that good transport is important. Integrating land uses and transport networks provides for better accessibility between work and home. It also provides for increased choices in the way people travel.

There are big challenges in providing adequate transport infrastructure for the south. Transport options for Drury-Opāheke are addressed in more detail at supportinggrowth.govt.nz/growth-areas/south

Parks and community facilities
New sports parks, suburb parks, neighbourhood parks and other parks will be provided for. New schools, medical facilities libraries, and other community facilities will also be needed in the area.

Housing
Housing choice will need to be provided for in the area. Increasing the density of neighbourhoods can improve housing affordability. Transport costs can be reduced where denser housing is located near rapid public transport and centres.

Staging and infrastructure
The council’s Future Urban Land Supply Strategy 2017 integrates the release of urban land with the supply of infrastructure over 30 years. The proposed staging for Drury-Opāheke is based on that strategy, however investigations are underway to establish whether it may be possible to bring additional areas forward in time. A major consideration is funding and the ability to delivery the necessary infrastructure to support this.

Next steps
The next steps include:
• consideration of your feedback
• possible further engagement on key issues
• draft structure plan will be approved in early 2019.

Frequently Asked Questions September 2018

Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata Draft Land Use Plan

What’s happening now?
Auckland Council started structure planning in 2017 to guide the development of Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata.

We asked for your views in 2017, and now we have done some more work on these plans and would like to update you and get some more feedback from you about how these areas should be developed.

How much growth is proposed?
Auckland’s Unitary Plan has identified land around Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata as areas for future urban development. There will be significant urban growth in these two areas over the next 10-20 years.

Drury-Opāheke has a relatively small existing population. The population could grow to about 65,000 people in the long-term as the area urbanises over 30 years.

Statistics NZ estimates Pukekohe’s 2018 population to be approximately 32,000 people. With the development of recently rezoned land in Paerata and Belmont, and the proposed residential zonings shown on the current consultation draft land use scenario map, this population could roughly double. The proposed residential zonings will add capacity for around 12,000 new dwellings.

What is a structure plan?
The Auckland Unitary Plan sets out the requirements for a structure plan.

Structure plans:
- identify opportunities and constraints relating to the land including: infrastructure provision, heritage, natural values and natural hazards
- investigate and address the potential effects of urbanisation in the structure plan areas
- identify suitable urban land uses
- do not rezone land but they will guide future plan change processes to rezone future urban zoned land into urban zones.

What’s happening next?
We will consider your feedback and continue working towards draft structure plans for Drury-Opāheke and Pukekohe-Paerata. It is anticipated that these will be ready in early 2019. Once the structure plans are finalised, they will become the basis for Auckland Council initiated plan changes.

How can I find out more detailed information and get a feedback form?
